H. A person who is mostly attracted to those of the same gender; often used to refer to men only

I. Used to refer to the range of non-heterosexual and non-cisgender people and provides a convenient shorthand for 'LGBT'. It is important to note that this is a reclaimed term that was once and is still used as a hate term and thus some people feel uncomfortable with it

J. having a gender identity that matches one's assigned sex; non-trans*

K. A woman who is primarily romantically and sexually attracted to women

L. A reproductive or sexual anatomy that does not closely resemble typical male or female reproductive or sexual anatomy, which may be related to genitalia, secondary sex characteristics, and/or chromosomal make-up

M. An individual who is attracted to and may form sexual and romantic relationships with men, women, and people who identify outside the gender binary

N. Someone who does not experience sexual desire for people of any gender. Some people desire romantic relationships, while others do not. This can be considered a spectrum, with some people experiencing desire for varying types of intimacy that can vary over time.
